

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides methods and systems for efficient and cost-effective provision of mouse colony management services to customers. Described herein is a novel integrated approach to provide a plurality of mouse colony management services by utilizing a common core process shared by the plurality of services.